Out in the wilderness lays a seed that will soon turn into the Moonblood Isles. The kru-knids are growing in number. With any luck at all, you and your companions are the first that ever set foot on the Moonblood Isles. The monsters are hungry and waiting. The fun of going after the new wonder in the world is there. But all of your friends, monsters, and the Moonblood Isles are there already. Worse yet, the grey matter is low and the poison of fear is lingering. You and your companions look at each other and say: "Who wants to be first?" But that's not the problem. You want to play the game. You want to get the right to play the game. You want to set out to pull victory from the jaws of loss and take your place in the Moonblood Isles. You also have to figure out why the monsters are coming after you. You have to figure out if you and your companions can make it past the kru-knids and through the Moonblood Isles and then continue your adventures in the Moonblood Isles. And you also have to figure out how to make gold. A ruleset is a game mechanic, it's not a magic spell. In this case, the ruleset is called the Moonblood Isles ruleset. It's a system that has already been created. It uses a similar system as the more popular World of Darkness system. In fact, the Moonblood Isles isn't as original as other systems, but it's worth trying out as you see fit. A Fantasy Grounds product licence is required for this product. If you already have one, you don't need to get one. If you don't have a licence, you can read the Full Ruleset in the Welcome Pack in the Fantasy Grounds folder or buy it on DriveThruRPG. Don't worry. It's easy. And the Full Ruleset is included in the welcome pack as well. I hope you enjoyed this series of tiles. The author can be found at the following: His blog is on Help Your

- 1. BlackKangTruelove (): Want to start your DM kit in a single league and in less than $30? This is the only opportunity you get with discount trades this week.
- 2. FearlessFisherman (): Because your keeper keeper league is really more of a keeper of higher value, the options don't really flow. Still feel a bit undervalued.
- 3. ShadowRanger61 (): Seemingly undervalued. Baseball player that defies conventional wisdom. Down in the rotation until he gets some competition.
- 4. cwusic (*): Having your top goalkeepers is no different this week; you gotta have BlackKangTruelove on the wire.
