Paquetes locales.BJP 2016: The case for Bedi just as every BJP spokesperson seems to be a candidate, not a leader, so BJP's leader Smriti Irani too is showing more and more support for the other side. To provide some perspective here, Smriti Irani won the main competition for a seat in Delhi, which the BJP had won by-elections in 2013. As such, a vote for her is not just a vote for the BJP but a vote to defeat Kejriwal. This week, Smriti has announced that she would only support Sheila Dikshit to ensure a BJP victory. It's also plausible to think that her support, or at least the threat of support, will be useful. If the polls went against the Modi-Amit Shah team, Kejriwal-Ajit-Manish Sisodia would start to look too hot and too dangerous to ignore. But the polls are looking like they are going against the BJP, and so far Smriti has not been much of a competitor. My hunch is that the election will go against the BJP, so Smriti's endorsement will be good for them. The only question is: will she pull it out of the bag? This is a brilliant chance for Smriti to show us the fruits of her past labours. If she had to stand up in Parliament and come out with brilliant and relevant answers to the question of Rahul Gandhi's citizenship, it is time she did. There are only two sensible answers. 1) Smriti Irani can tell the nation that she has never seen or heard of Rahul Gandhi. This is an easy lie to refute. 2) Smriti Irani can reveal Rahul Gandhi's birth certificate. This is an even easier lie to refute. Both lie effectively because they don't have to address any substantive issue. Rahul Gandhi's birth certificate, which would prove that he was born in Dubai, should cause her to panic because of the ease of refutation (which is not to say the refutation won't be difficult) and because the issue will have been raised. She should have baled out on this when she first appeared on TV. But now that she is in

"I would like to assure you that I am in no way interested in the race," Hartle wrote in a letter to the party chairman posted to UCP's website. With that in mind, we created this showcase, which contains just that, a stunning collection of butterfly poses. We then added a few lovely flower pictures, whose petals are a perfect match for the butterflies. Finally, we offer a few magic carpet poses, with a lovely lady seated on the end of the carpet, more hot pink than usual. To investigate the behavior of prostate cancer (PCa) and benign hyperplasia (BPH) cells and to explore the pathogenic mechanism of PCa, we examined cell proliferation, apoptosis and the expression of caspase-3, Bcl-2, PCNA and Ki-67 in PCa and BPH by histological and immunohistochemical techniques. The results showed that in vivo, proliferating epithelial cells in PCa, basal cells in high grade PCa and basal cells in BPH and secretory epithelial cells in BPH had significant higher expression rate of Ki-67 than normal basal cells. Among them, the highest Ki-67 positive rate was observed in the secretory epithelial cells of BPH. We also found that in PCa and BPH, proliferating basal and secretory epithelial cells were always weakly stained positive for Bcl-2, and staining for caspase-3 was observed only in PCa cells. This observation suggests that overe
