Mobile Spider is a lightweight software application whose purpose is to help you search and extract phone, mobile and fax numbers from websites. Customize the search process Mobile Spider offers you the option to look for phone numbers by specifying a user-defined

URL. In addition, you can enter keywords, specify the preferred search engine, and start, pause or stop a scan. What's more, you are allowed to personalize the search task by selecting the country or region from a drop-down list, viewing the code for the corresponding location, as well as setting up the area code or prefix keywords and number format. Information about the search process is offered directly in the main panel, such as URL, number of bytes, progress, action, and depth. You can check out the log window for information about the errors registered during a scan. Batch actions can be employed for processing multiple URLs from plain text or FLOW files. Search results A list with all extracted phone numbers is revealed in a dedicated panel, and you are given the freedom to perform searches, go to the first, last, next, or previous item from the list, add a custom number or delete it, as well as export the information to TXT, XLS, XML, or CSV file format. Plus, you can import phone numbers from different file formats, namely TXT, XLS, CSV, XML, DBF, and MDB. Tests have shown that the application carries out a task quickly.
