Q: How can I set default cursor value for an RichTextBox from WinForms? I would like to be able to set the default cursor value for an ITextObject created in a RichTextBox object. After playing a little, I found that ITextObject doesn't work with the standard ITextHost. Instead you have to subclass the ITextHost. Which is fine, but I still don't know how I can set the default cursor. A: Something like this should work
